
A keystroke reaches a program through the OS.
Its response comes back through the screen.